

Competition is the most effective form of regulating corporate greed.
Keep the small businessman in competition with big business.